

NORTH CAROLINA CHAPTER

The Chapter's 2010 Ken Wilson Memorial Award for an NCSU student is presented to an outstanding individual in NC State's wildlife program. He is an excellent student and is presently pursuing a Master's degree, working on a white-tailed deer project in Hoffmann Forest. He is a member of The Wildlife Society, the North Carolina Chapter of the Wildlife Society, and the Leopold Wildlife Club. His work is characterized by professionalism, carefulness, thoroughness and enthusiasm. He has demonstrated supervisory skills, communication skills and a keen ability to interact with biologists, landowners, and students at all levels. He offers assistance to others with their fieldwork. For several years, he has been an important liaison between the Leopold Wildlife Club and the Quality Deer Management Association. Some of his other activities include helping organize a middle school scavenger hunt at the Dixie Deer Classic; planning and conducting a deer survey in Chapel Hill; actively participating in Conclave competition; serving as teaching assistant in a summer camp; supervising volunteers in research projects; reviewing manuscripts for professional journals; and helping the Leopold Wildlife Club function smoothly and effectively.

This year's Ken Wilson Memorial Award is presented to M. Colter Chitwood in recognition of his past activities, his initiative at the academic and professional level, and his commitment to wildlife conservation.

North Carolina Chapter The Wildlife Society

Ken Wilson Memorial Award presented to

M. Colter Chitwood

in recognition of Excellence in Wildlife Stewardship as a North Carolina State University student

February 11, 2010

NCTWS President